

Briefly let me say that I don't believe it makes sense to pollute the HF and lower VHF spectrum with BPL signals. Power lines were designed to carry 60hz power, not broadband signals. If we really want to provide broadband to areas that don't have it lets use technology that was designed for that purpose. The solution will be more effective and existing services in the HF and lower VHF spectrum will not be impacted.